

SANDAG
Mid-Coast Corridor Transit Project Working Group (PWG)

APPLICATIONS BEING ACCEPTED

SANDAG invites residents, students, business leaders, employers, and other stakeholders to submit applications to serve on the Mid-Coast Corridor Transit Project Working Group (PWG) created by SANDAG to provide input on a proposed new transit project extending from Old Town north to UC San Diego (UCSD).

The 22-member PWG will provide input on the project's purpose and need, alternatives for consideration in the environmental review process, the draft supplemental environmental document, and the draft Public Involvement Plan.

The Mid-Coast Corridor Transit Project as currently proposed is the extension of light rail transit service from the Old Town Transit Center to University City, University Towne Centre, UCSD, and downtown San Diego. Project alternatives under review include light rail transit (LRT) alternatives, bus rapid transit (BRT) alternatives and a commuter rail shuttle.

The PWG has been established to involve citizens who represent the diverse perspectives and geographic areas of the Mid-Coast Corridor. The PWG is expected to meet no more than monthly starting in July 2009.

The deadline for applications is June 22, 2009 at 4 p.m. For more information, visit www.sandag.org/midcoast or contact Anne Steinberger at ast@sandag.org or (619) 699-1937.
